- an excellent command of English is a prerequisite
- students interested in the following topics:
 - 1) Memories and memory politics in contemporary Central Europe
 - 2) Memory and anthropological perspectives
 - 3) Cultural heritage and the memory of the everyday life in Central Europe
 - 4) The European Union and its future
 - 5) Central Europe and its modern history
 - 6) Central and South Eastern Europe in the International Relations of 20th and 21st Century
 - 7) Cultural transfer and intercultural relations

How to apply?

A motivation letter detailing why you wish to participate in this CEEPUS workshop, together with a topic and an abstract of your dissertation (about 200 words) and your CV including your academic career is to be sent to two emails: 1) radmila.svarickova@upol.cz, 2) your institutional coordinator natasza.styczynska@uj.edu.pl

We only accept electronic applications sent via e-mail.

The deadline for applications is 23 November 2018.

Successful candidates will be notified by the end of November 2018.

The costs of the workshop are covered by the CEEPUS scholarship (students will receive a scholarship of about 3 000 CZK) and will pay the cost of their accommodation and their meals out of it). Refreshments during workshops and two receptions will be offered by Palacký University Olomouc.

Accommodation

All students will be accommodated at the student's dormitory „generála Svobody“ of Palacký University. Accommodation will be booked and students will pay it themselves from their scholarship (cost per one night in a room shared by two persons: 280 CZK, single room: 400 CZK).

Travel costs

According to the CEEPUS rules, the travel costs might be paid by the CEEPUS scholarship through the home institution. Please contact your institutional coordinator to find out if and how your travel costs can be paid.
