

Euroscepticism in the CEE 10 years after the “big bang” enlargement

29.05.2014

Venue: Institute of European Studies Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland (room 1.22, first floor)

Thursday, May 29th

9.30 – 10.00 registration

10.00 opening of the workshop – dr hab. Dariusz Niedźwiedzki, Director of the Institute of European Studies, Jagiellonian University, Poland

10.10 – 10.30 – opening address: Euroscepticism in CEE - is it at all different? Prof. Zdzislaw Mach, Jagiellonian University, Poland

10.30 – 11.30 session one: Party based euroscepticism in CEE
Chair: Natasza Styczyńska, Jagiellonian University, Poland

Petr Kaniok, Masaryk University, Czech Republic, Euroscepticism in the Czech Republic

Peter J. Tunkis, The Ohio State University, USA - Are Polish parliamentarians nationalist or Eurosceptic? Results from an elite attitudes survey

11.30 -12.20 coffee break

12.20 – 14.00 session two: Party based euroscepticism in CEE and beyond
Chair: Natasza Styczyńska, Jagiellonian University, Poland

Nóra Lázár, Corvinus University, Hungary - Euroscepticism in Hungary and in Poland. A comparative analyses of the Jobbik and the Law and Justice parties

Sándor Gallai and József Dúró, Corvinus University, Hungary, Euroscepticism in Hungary

Aleksandra Moroska-Bonkiewicz, University of Lower Silesia, Poland - Polish Euroscepticism in the European context. The evolution of attitudes in a comparative perspective

Przemysław Biskup, University of Warsaw, Poland, Is British Euroscepticism a mother of all Euroscepticisms?: British influence in conceptualising Eurosceptical discourse in Western and Central-Eastern Europe

14.00 – 14.45 lunch break

14.45 -16.30 Session three: Euroscepticism, public opinion and media (CEE and beyond)

Speaker & Discussant: Asimina Michailidou, ARENA, University of Oslo, Norway

Dimiter Toshkov and Elitsa Kortenska, Leiden University, the Netherlands - Does immigration undermine public support for integration in the European Union?

Maciej Stępką, Jagiellonian University, Poland, (Re)development of euroscepticism in Poland - a local perspective

16:45-17.15 sum up & wrap up of the workshop

19.00 dinner for speakers (Trufla Restaurant, Old Town - Tomasza 2 street)

Additionally the workshop proceedings will be presented on May 30th - during the morning session of the conference organised by Polish Association of European Studies devoted to the theme of 10 years of Poland in the EU.

Workshop participants are welcome to join this conference free of charge (please note that the working language of the conference is polish). This will help to disseminate the workshop results and promote research on euroscepticism among the wider audience.